

MetLife's Total Control Accounts (TCA) provide an attractive settlement option to beneficiaries of life insurance policies and annuities.

We believe that TCA holders appreciate the benefits of the TCA and many have told us so.

The funds held in TCA's are fully guaranteed by the financial strength of MetLife, which has been delivering on its promises since 1868. While, as our materials to our customers explain, the TCA is not FDIC insured, customers have no reason to doubt the security of their TCA funds.

Our materials carefully explain the TCA to our customers so that they understand that they can use their checkbooks to withdraw all of their benefits immediately or over time as they choose. They have full access to their funds and earn a guaranteed minimum interest rate that exceeds what they could earn on most money market accounts.

Beneficiaries that decide to keep their benefits in the TCA have the opportunity to make investment decisions without haste with the security of knowing that they are earning interest on those assets without interruption and the flexibility to withdraw the funds when they choose.
