

Listening to NPR on Google Home

Below are all of the NPR-friendly commands available on Google Home. Keep this near your device for easy reference.

GENERAL COMMANDS

“Ok Google, play NPR.”

Stream your local public radio station – live.

“Ok Google, play the latest news from NPR.”

Hear the latest 3-minute newscast, updated every hour.

“Ok Google, play [any public radio station’s call letters].”

Stream live from any public radio station by saying the station name or call letters, i.e., “Ok Google, play WAMU,” or “Ok Google, play KCUR.” To find any NPR member station in the country, check out npr.org/stations.

“Ok Google, play [podcast name] podcast.”

Play the latest episode of a specific podcast. Be sure to say “podcast” after the show name.

FOR GOOGLE DEVICES WITH A SCREEN

Say, “OK Google, play the news from NPR” to receive our visual newscast. Hosted by the same voices you know and love from our daily audio newscast, the NPR visual newscast is updated hourly every weekday morning with the latest headlines and footage for a quick look at what’s going on in the news, now.

WITH NPR ONE ENABLED

“Ok Google, talk to NPR One.”

Hear a flow of 2-minute stories from NPR.

MORNING EDITION

“Ok Google, play Morning Edition.”

Follow the prompts to localize to your Member station. Morning Edition plays you the most recent available hour of that day’s show. It’s available on weekdays from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. local time.